Oil Down as Coal and Natural Gas Prices Continue to Soar

Investing.com – Oil was down Wednesday morning in Asia after its mixed finish in the previous session. Coal and natural gas prices continue to soar in markets such as China, India, and Europe, fueling concerns of rising inflation and slower global growth that could reduce fuel demand. Brent oil futures were down 0.36% to $83.12 by 11:50 PM ET (3:50 AM GMT) extending a 23-cent loss on Tuesday. WTI Futures fell 0.38% to $80.33 after gaining 12 cents the day before. Both Brent and WTI futures remained above the $80 mark.

Gold Up Ahead of Fed Meeting Minutes, U.S. Inflation Data

Investing.com – Gold was up on Wednesday morning in Asia, steadying ahead of the U.S. Federal Reserve's latest meeting minutes and inflation data. Both the minutes and the data will be analyzed for clues as to the central bank's timeline for asset tapering. Gold futures were up 0.18% to $1,762.55 by 9:47 PM ET (1:47 AM GMT).
